Profile

When a corporate entity enters the zone of insolvency, many stakeholders are directly impacted: employees, management, trade creditors and lenders. Critical decisions have to be made by the board in real-time. Time is acutely compressed, payroll may be owing, creditors are pressing and deadlines are imminent.

Chris is recognized as a leading insolvency lawyer in British Columbia. He is able to calm the waters during these troubled times and develop strategies that give critical breathing room to allow constructive dialogue between a company and its stakeholders with a view to moving towards a common restructuring goal.

He is also one of the leading fraud and asset recovery lawyers in western Canada. He has been retained as counsel in many large international complex fraud cases and is one of only four designated Canadian members of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC) FraudNet. He has over 25 years of experience in the investigation of fraud, the tracing and recovering of proceeds of fraud worldwide, and the implementation of recovery strategies retaining foreign lawyers, forensic accountants and other experts.
